Change of Name for More Streets in Lexington

At the regular meeting of the Town Council last Thursday night, following the recommendation of the special committee, the names of several other streets were changed, in order to avoid confusion. Dr. W. LeConte Stevens appeared before the Council and most of his recommendations were adopted, the changes being as follows:

The short street from railway station past Robinson & Hutton's warehouse, was named First street.

The streets around the station from E. A. Moore Company's were named Railroad Square.

The name of Myers street was given to the extension at that street to Nelson street at the junction at Mr. T. S. Burwell's.

The street from Washington bending around past Col Alto to the corporate limits was named Lewis street, which is an extension of that street.

Messrs. J. McD. Adair, W. P. Irwin, Drs. J. L. Howe and H. D. Campbell appeared before the Council as representing the Presbyterian church, in regard to the town clock which occupies the church tower, and requested the removal of the clock if it cannot be made to keep correct time. The advisability of a new clock was discussed, if practicable. The matter was continued.

Mr. J. L. Campbell, Jr., presented a claim for damages against the town to a cow belonging to Mrs. H. C. Birmingham. Referred to the town attorney for report.

Shooting Episode Friday Morning at Glasgow

Considerable excitement was occasioned in Glasgow last Friday morning by a personal altercation between former Postmaster G. W. Jones and Mr. George Moxley, and each man fired a ball into the body of his opponent. The shooting occurred near Baldwin & Echols' store. From testimony and general evidence of persons who are in position to know, it seems that bad blood had existed between the two men for some time.

Mr. Jones had been away from Glasgow and had returned and was posting bills that day for a sale of his property, expecting to leave the place. Passing Mr. Moxley near the postoffice, the shooting began, each man firing one shot. Contradictory statements were made as to which one opened fire. At any rate Mr. Jones was shot in the arm and Mr. Moxley in the side, the ball glancing from one of his ribs. Mr. Jones was knocked down and badly beaten about the face by Mr. Moxley.

A hearing of the case was held by Justice W. B. Poindexter Monday, and each man was fined $75 for disturbing the peace. Mr. Hugh A. White of Lexington represented Mr. Jones and Mr. A. W. Robertson of Buena Vista, was counsel for Mr. Moxley. Mr. White noted an appeal for his client, which was refused by Justice Poindexter.

On account of the gravity of the offense, it is thought that the grand jury will look into the matter.

Protracted services are being held each night this week at Trinity Methodist church, with preaching by the pastor, Rev. William F. Locke. A song service begins at 7:45, with preaching at 8 o'clock.

President Smith Addressed Student Assembly on Athletics

Dr. Henry Louis Smith, president of Washington and Lee University, yesterday at noon addressed the Student Assembly on "College Athletics," which he endorsed in unqualified terms.

Dr. Smith said, in opening, that his subject was one from which most speakers would shrink, but that it was a theme of compelling interest. He declared that when the future historian recorded the events of the thirty or forty years lapsing the entrance to the twentieth century, the greatest importance in the educational world to be considered will be the fact of University building, when millions of money and thousands of students contribute to the upbuilding of College life and College activities. In contrast with the curriculum of our grandfathers, when Latin, Greek and Mathematics were the principal subjects, a curriculum that made men narrow but made them strong, the speaker referred to the increased studies of the present, together with the great subject of College athletics, which he declared possessed superior advantages in fitting men for the struggles of competitive life.

Dr. Smith advocated all kinds of athletics—tennis, aquatics, track contests, baseball and football, the last of which he denominated as the finest example yet evolved of the educational process. It teaches willing obedience to self-chosen leadership, a passionate desire to learn and an eager endurance of unremitting drudgery to attain knowledge and skill, a rigid self-denial and self-sacrifice for the sake of future success and a mutual helpfulness and co-operation. It weeds out the unfit and untrained and is democratic for efficiency in service and team work.

In conclusion Dr. Smith expressed the hope that the time was not far distant when Washington and Lee would be provided with a swimming pool accessible to every student at all times, day or night, winter or summer; and when a modern, well equipped gymnasium should be erected for use of the students. These, in connection with other departments of College athletics, he declared would afford the best of physical training for every young man.

Dr. Smith's sentiments were enthusiastically applauded by the student body occupying the Lee Memorial chapel.

Mr. Charles E. Northern Died in Knoxville, Tenn.

Mrs. Robert L. Northern received a telegram Sunday from Knoxville, Tenn., with the sad intelligence that her son, Mr. Charles E. Northern, died at his home in that city Saturday night, October 5, 1912, of heart trouble. He had not been ill and tidings of his death came as a great shock to his family in Lexington.

Mr. Charles Emmet Northern was the second son of Mrs. Northern and the late Mr. Robert L. Northern of Lexington. He was 32 years old, having been born August 26, 1880. He left Lexington about 15 years ago, shortly after the death of his father, and for several years made his home in Arkansas. Later he successfully conducted business in Asheville, N. C., for some years, and about six weeks ago removed to Knoxville, Tenn., to make his home.

Mr. Northern is survived by his wife, who was Miss Stella Powell of Asheville, and three small daughters; also by his mother, Mrs. Northern, and two brothers and three sisters. They are: Messrs. Thomas R. Northern of Columbia, S. C., and Lewis W. Northern of Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Neptune Buckner of Asheville, N. C.; Mrs. R. Lee Miller of Knoxville, Tenn., and Miss Lucy Northern of Lexington.

The remains were taken to Asheville for burial, the interment being made Tuesday morning. Mrs. Northern left Lexington Monday morning for Asheville to be present at the funeral.

Rockbridge Public Schools Opened

The public schools of Rockbridge opened last week, and Superintendent Effinger reports encouraging attendance. The high schools opened earlier, and they also are well attended. A few of the schools were delayed, and opened this week. It is gratifying to school authorities to learn that the vaccination requirement was so heartily endorsed by the patrons of the schools. Very little opposition was met.

Meeting of the Board of Supervisors Monday

The Board of Supervisors of Rockbridge held a stated meeting Monday at the Courthouse, with Supervisors Kinnear (chairman), Whitmore, McNutt, Saville, Hotinger and Patterson present.

In the matter of petition of R. I. Montgomery and others for change of road through the lands of Mrs. Amanda J. Bare and C. M. Painter and wife, the viewers' report was received and the following commissioners were appointed: Messrs. H. H. Teaford, J. H. Harper, J. W. Moore, J. L. McCurdy and A. M. Anderson, who will meet at the proposed change on Thursday, Oct. 24th, at 10 a. m., to ascertain damages.

County Treasurer Moore was directed to honor school warrants out of any fund to amount of $1,000, the same to be returned not later than Dec. 1, 1912.

Supervisors Whitmore and Hotinger were appointed a committee to arrange with Aleck Scott to look after the hitching yard.

A. E. Faltz, agent for Farmers' Co-Operative Demonstration Work, submitted a written report of his work.

The contract for furnishing coal to heat the Courthouse was awarded to Robinson & Hutton and E. A. Moore Company.

Supervisor Patterson was instructed to express to the family of the late James E. A. Gibbs the thanks of the Board for their offer to furnish a portrait of Mr. Gibbs to be placed in Rockbridge's Hall of Fame in the Courthouse.
